Using the method of sections, I was able to calculate the internal forces of the beam. Using Autodesk Robot, I used the given dimensions to generate a model of the Truss. The program was able to calculate the same internal forces that I came up with by hand.

Hand Calculations:

---

![Image of hand calculations and diagrams]