Here you can see that the Autodesk problem matches exactly the same numbers as my hand written problem above.

Vertical displacement at point E, which is node 5 in my Autodesk problem = -0.0096, and my answer is 0.0096 down.

Both results shown in the print screen and the worked by hand problem match exact, where the percentage difference is roughly 0.